February 2019
(Version 4 – updated Aug 2019)

This is a summary of our experience applying for a Long Stay Visa (Carte de Long Sejour) for French Polynesia from the French Embassy in Mexico City (Mexico D.F. or Ciudad de Mexico). This information is current as of February 2019, as are the links, but please double-check requirements as they may change. Also note that we are publishing this immediately after our appointment so it will be available for other sailors this season. We have not received our visas yet so we may have done something wrong and are not aware of it yet.

1. Download the Formulaire de demande de visa long séjour at <https://mx.ambafrance.org/Formulaire-de-demande-de-visa-long>. We downloaded the French and English versions but submitted only the French version after using the English version to aid translation.

Item 26 - Date d'entrée prévue sur le territoire de la France...:

Our understanding is that you must arrive in French Polynesia within 3 months of your application date. We waited until the day of our appointment to fill out this item and then chose the date exactly 3 months from that date (e.g., our appointment was 11 Feb 2019 and we entered 11 June 2019).

2. Download the list of documents required for a Larga estadia (mayor a 90 días) - Autre - Visitateur <https://mx.ambafrance.org/IMG/pdf/visiteur.pdf>. We translated the list into English, which is attached. However, make sure you check the website for changes.

Fee: The fee is 99 Euros. Have exact change in Mexican pesos. Since the exchange rate varies, have small bills and change available. When we visited on 11 Feb 2019, the fee was 2,181 pesos.

#3 - Photos: You must have proper photos or your application will not be accepted. This is very important! The French are serious about photos conforming to their rules: white background, no smiling, no teeth showing, no hair around the face (bangs) or hair covering the ears, no glasses, no jewelry. If you want to be sure to get the correct photos, you can visit Tabaqueria Polanco (Calle Julio Verne 84 B, Polanco, Miguel Hidalgo, 11550 Ciudad de México -

<https://www.google.com/maps/place/Tabaqueria+Polanco/@19.4302607,-99.1967029,17z/data=!4m5!3m4!1s0x85d202020ab1d551:0xa821e824ceff9c58!8m2!3d19.4302593!4d-99.1968085>) which is only a few blocks from the Embassy. Tell them you want 2 photos for a French VISA (not passport). It costs 60 pesos for 2 photos.

#5 – FM2 or FM3 (Proof of Mexico Residency): We had neither an FM2 or FM3. Via the French Honorary Consul in La Paz*, who was extremely helpful and speaks excellent English, we contacted a representative of the visa department at the Mexico D.F. French Embassy and explained our situation by email (in French). Though you technically should be a resident of Mexico, they are willing to make an exception for sailors. We included copies of our Tourist Visa and a letter from a marina in Mexico stating that we reside aboard our boat in their marina. Spanish will probably be fine but we translated this letter into French. Some marinas may provide you with this letter if you have stayed there previously, or if you just ask nicely.

#6 – I Won't Work In France Letter: Though the requirement document does not specify this letter be translated, we submitted ours in French. Copy below.

#7 – Motivation Letter: Though the requirement document does not specify this letter be translated, we submitted ours in French.

#8 – Proof of Regular Income. See #10 below.

#9 – Lease in France: We provided our boat documentation.

#10 – Economic Resources: We provided relevant pages from bank and retirement account statements. (Remember to black out the account numbers.)

#11 – Insurance: We have the DAN Preferred Plan and separate ex-pat insurance through IMG Europe. We provided copies of our DAN cards, the relevant insurance pages from the DAN Benefits manual, and our IMG Europe declaration.

#12 – Police Clearance Letter: Get this from your hometown police department and translate into French. Make sure it is an original. A fax or photocopy is unacceptable.

Note that the requirements document says you need a photocopy of each document. We arrived at the Embassy with copies of everything, but they did not want them.

3. Make a visa appointment. You need one appointment time for each visa applicant. We tried using the Embassy's online tool (<https://mx.ambafrance.org/Citas-para-la-solicitud-de-visa-Rendez-vous-pour-la-demande-d-un-visa>) but could never find an open spot. Finally, we contacted the Embassy representative (again via the Honorary Consul in La Paz) and explained our situation. We were then assigned a day (not a time) for our appointment in Mexico D.F. If you go this route, make sure you specify how many applicants there are. We believe it is also important that you communicate with the Embassy in French or Spanish, not English.
4. Gather all items needed from the required document list. Do not staple anything together. Note that some items may take time to receive (e.g., the police clearance letter). Also, if you want your visa returned to you via courier, read item 7 below before your appointment.
5. Go to your appointment.

- a. Travel to Mexico D.F.: There are hundreds of daily flights to Mexico. We flew from La Paz on Volaris and rented an Airbnb in Polanco which is the barrio where the French Embassy is located. It's an upscale (and safe) part of town but the Airbnb was quite reasonable. Take a couple of extra days to tour around the city; it's a great place! The Metro is excellent, safe, and only costs 5 pesos! There are several bikeshare companies with lots of bikes available. Taxify has service in the city as does Uber (but please don't use Uber because they are an awful company). Don't miss Teotihuacan, the Zocalo, Ballet Folklorico, and the Anthropology Museum. Remember that museums and Chapultepec Park are closed on Monday. However, Chapultepec Park is open to bicycles passing through on Monday so you can ride around in it.
 - b. Your Appointment: The French Visa Office has its own entry on the west side of the Embassy on Calle Calderón de la Barca just off of Campos Eliseos - <https://www.google.com/maps/place/Calle+Calderón+de+la+Barca+30-11,+Polanco,+Polanco+III+Secc,+11550+Ciudad+de+México,+CDMX,+Mexico/@19.4283439,-99.2000991,19z/data=!4m5!3m4!1s0x85d201f8152c6f47:0xe4efd7acb36257d4!8m2!3d19.4288568!4d-99.1995899>. Since we only had a date for our appointment and not a time, we arrived just after opening at 0900. There were already 3 people waiting, so take that into account. Have your photos and passports ready for the guard. He will buzz you into the anteroom to check your photos, passports, and that you have an appointment. We were not on the printed list but he did have another hand-written list which included our names. You will have to leave your mobile phone with the guard. Once the guard lets you in, take a seat and wait for your turn. They like you to sit in order of how you arrive and to move to the front rows. You'll eventually be called to a window. It would be best if you speak French or Spanish but the Embassy personnel may speak English.
 - c. Travel from Mexico D.F.: Remember that you will need to leave your passport with your application at the French Embassy. You will NOT have your passport for your return travel to your boat. We had Temporary US Passports and used those for our ID. It might be possible to use other forms of ID to fly domestically, but we don't have a definitive answer to this question. Of course, you could take a train or a bus to return to your boat.
6. Receive your passport and visa via courier service.
 - a. We were told the visa processing time should be about one month. The French Embassy will return your passport and visa to you via a courier service if you provide a pre-paid envelope. There is a PAKMAIL service center two blocks from the Embassy (Ariosto 10, Polanco – <https://www.google.com/maps/place/Pakmail/@19.4294751,-99.202889,17z/data=!3m1!4b1!4m5!3m4!1s0x85d201f8037b8ff9:0x10454e1fb22d545!8m2!3d19.4294751!4d-99.2007003>)and they are familiar with the process. Visit Pakmail before your appointment and tell them you want a prepaid envelope for a passport. Make clear it is for a visa from the French Embassy and that you will be sending it to a domicile or business -- NOT a consular office. Make sure you can provide a valid address in Mexico where you can receive mail. They offer FedEx, DHL, or Estefeta. Estefeta was cheapest to Puerto Vallarta (450 pesos). Don't forget to include your envelope with your application at your visa office appointment. You will need one envelope for each visa application.

UPDATE March 2019: We were unable to check the status of our visa online at the France Diplomatie website (<https://pastel.diplomatie.gouv.fr/VisaNET-Consultation-Internet/html/frameset/frameset.html>); it just never worked. So, after 4 weeks, we wrote to our embassy contact. He was out of town but did reply one week later saying that our visas would be printed that week and sent directly. However, it was another 2 weeks before our passports and visas were received via Estafeta overnight delivery. The total time from our appointment to receipt of our visas was 7 weeks. But, the process was successful!

7. Sail to French Polynesia. You will still need to activate your visa upon arrival. For more information about that process, check out the definitive document created by s/v Jacaranda at www.jacarandajourney.com/other-good-stuff.
8. Raise a toast to congratulate yourself on the successful completion of the process and thank the French for une expérience grande et formidable.

We will end with a short story about our first experience with this process in 2008. At that time we left Migration in Tahiti and flew back to Los Angeles where we stayed for over 3 months waiting for our visas. After our return to Tahiti, while having dinner with some French friends on their boat, we related the story of our travails and the mounds of paperwork it entailed (everything was submitted in triplicate then). Guy, our French host, said "Oui, there is much bureaucracy in France." We responded that there was also bureaucracy in the United States. "Oh, non, non, non," Guy replied, "Les Etats Unis are only 200 years old. We French have had over 500 years to perfect the bureaucracy!"
